Erasmus+

Non-formal education is a purposeful activity that develops a person's personal, social and educational competencies that aim to develop a conscious personality able to solve their problems responsibly and creatively, as well as actively participate in the life of society. Erasmus+ international projects help students develop these competencies. While working together with their teachers, the students actively engage in a variety of creative activities, learn tolerance, communication and collaboration, improve their critical thinking, develop self-confidence skills, and have the opportunity to broaden their horizons when visiting foreign countries.
